

cable connection from upc cablecom:

Our arguments

- 1. With the cable from upc cablecom connection it is possible to receive analogue and digital television and radio in any number of different rooms simultaneously. With Swisscom TV, on the other hand, a maximum of two television sets can be connected.
- 2. It is now also possible in most areas to use free Internet via the cable connection from upc cablecom at a speed of 300 Kbit/s.
- 3. Digital television programmes can now also be received using a DigiCard instead of a set-top box. The basic requirement is a CI+-compatible TV set. Some 55 television channels, including HD Suisse, and at least 70 radio channels can be received with this DigiCard.
- 4. The cable connection runs without any interference in all weathers; with a satellite TV unit outages are to be expected in heavy rain or snow. An increasing number of programmes broadcast via satellite are transmitted only in an encrypted format.
- 5. A satellite system requires recurring investments and maintenance at customers' own expense. This is not the case with our cable connection: Service Plus, our modernisation and service offer, guarantees you fast, free eradication of any connection problems for just CHF 2.-/month (CHF 2.15/month incl. VAT). So you are fully prepared for the digital future.
- 6. Our cable network is far more powerful than Swisscom's copper wire network: we offer hundreds of digital TV channels (an increasing number of them in brilliant HD quality), interactive services such as Video on Demand, superfast Internet (at 100 Mbit/s) and reasonably priced fixed network telephony.
- 7. Only the network of upc cablecom will continue to bring the ever-popular analogue television and radio services into any room via any socket without any extra equipment.
- 8. Our new Internet products (Fiber Power Internet), at transmission speeds of 100 Mbit/s, are available in an increasing number of areas.

We are still investing continually in our network. Find out here which products are available where you live: upc-cablecom.ch
